

As we say goodbye to 2017, we get to look forward into the coming year. A fresh start to the endless possibilities of the next 365 days. At Campus Life, we are kicking off this new year by taking our girls to a weekend retreat in the mountains of Virginia. Here, they will get a chance to experience the love of Christ, their first love, while learning what it looks like to live as a godly woman in our society.

While we plan for this coming retreat, it is my heart's desire that our students will open their eyes to the truth that no matter what their past contains, Jesus has a new life waiting for them. They can become made new in this new year!

God blessed us with so much in 2017, and I know He will remain faithful in the coming 2018! My prayer for this year is that we will see many new creations at campus life. Please pray with me for lives to be changed, hearts to be softened, and eyes to be opened this year. Thank you for your heart for Campus Life and for our students!

Christ, he is a

what is old has passed away—
look, what is new
has come!”
